REPORT

OF THE

ADJUTANT-GENERAL

OF MARYLAND.

ANNAPOLIS:
KING BROS., STATE PRINTERS,
1894.

STATE OF MARYLAND.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

ANNAPOLIS, January 1, 1894.

To the Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the Annual Report for this office and the Maryland National Guard, from the 1st of January, 1893, to the end of the fiscal year.

By General Orders No. 5, it was made the duty of the Quartermaster General and the Inspector General on your staff, and of the Brigade and Regimental Commanders, to make annual reports of their work and the operations of their commands, as if they were in actual service. These reports present details which it would not be practicable to obtain otherwise, and will be especially useful in preserving a history of the Guard. Extracts from these reports are published in connection with this one.

The organization of the Brigade is about the same as it was at the date of my last Report. Its efficiency in equipment and experience has steadily improved, although several of the companies, by reason of untoward circumstances, are in a condition that will make their disbandment necessary, unless they are reorganized. The condition of the Second Battalion, in Western Maryland, is not satisfactory, and it may be advisable, unless a good officer is found who is willing to take charge of it, to attach it as a Battalion to the First Regiment. This might, in any event, be better for its efficiency.

I entirely concur in the suggestion of the Brigade Commander that no new companies of infantry be added to the State Guard. It is large enough for all practical purposes; heretofore it has been too large to be properly and effectively armed, uniformed and equipped from the State appropriation.

It is not desirable to have any more State troops than can be kept in good condition for actual service. This has not been the condition of the National Guard of the State, and is not yet, although that condition has been much improved of late. More than that, it should be left discretionary with the Commander-in-Chief whether, in case any company now existing shall be disbanded, he shall authorize another to be organized and mustered in to fill the vacancy. There is great expense attending the equipment of a new company with uniforms and arms, and one which results sometimes do not justify. We certainly have enough of infantry at this time for our means of support.

In my first Report, I referred to the importance of having a Battery of Artillery connected with the State Guard, as soon as the nature of the appropriation permitted it. Then the condition of the troops already in existence made the expense for a battery impracticable. Now that the general equipment is much improved, I hope it may be practicable before long to execute the desire for a battery of four guns, to be distributed and assigned as suggested in my former report. The long-felt need of a troop of cavalry—the importance of which no one knows so well as one who has seen the use of cavalry in actual service—is taking shape in a movement for the formation of a city troop. The equipment of a company of cavalry is very expensive, and whether the State will be able to contribute much of that expense, will depend not only upon the appropriation, but upon its necessary expenditure in keeping up the present command and in paying for the next encampment. I hope, however, that it may not be long before our State Guard will have as part of its service a battery of guns and a troop of horse.

Three regiments of the Brigade took part in the parade attending the Inauguration of the President, on the 4th of March last. The weather was very unfavorable and very trying on their patriotism and endurance. How well they acted and performed their duties is expressed in the general congratulation issued by your order and appended to this Report. It is fortunate that the exposure to which they were subjected did not have the dire consequence which nearly deprived the State of the services of their Commander-in-Chief.

After due consideration, and upon consultation with the Governor, Brigade Commander and Regimental officers, it was determined to omit the biennial encampment, which would have been held last summer. There were several considerations which seemed to make it imperative that this should be done—many of the troops were badly in need of uniforms, arms and equipments. Soldiers without these are unserviceable, if called upon for actual soldierly duty, and are only a pretence. Recognizing the very great usefulness and importance of a camp for instruction, at least once in two years, there is no use to give troops the instruction of a camp unless they are equipped for the duties of the field. I believed there was no room for discussion as to which was the primary consideration in the expenditure of the appropriation, and knowing that it was not possible, without running the State into debt beyond the appropriation, to hold an encampment, and also to equip the Guard as it should be, I determined that the camp should be abandoned. In this, the Governor and officers mentioned concurred. Besides, there were old debts which had been contracted upon the faith and credit of the State, before my appointment, which could not be paid if the camp was held, and it was very desirable to get rid of them. They have nearly all been paid. The World's Exposition at Chicago was such an attraction for citizen soldiers who could raise the money to visit it, that it was believed the attendance at camp would be materially affected, especially when due consideration was given to the depressed financial and business condition of the country. For these and other reasons it was determined, I think judiciously, to abandon the camp for the past summer. Whether or not a camp can or should be held in the summer of 1894, will depend, first, of course, upon the appropriation to be voted by the present Legislature for two years, and then upon conditions which may prevail when the time arrives. It is important that it should be held, if practicable.

In this connection I desire to report that it has been my effort, since the beginning of your administration, to reduce the expenses of this department to a cash basis. This at times has caused me some embarrassment, and I apprehend some of the officers and men thought I have been penurious with the public funds. But the National Guard, depending upon legislative appropriation for its support and existence, cannot afford to be in debt. Each year's appropriation should pay each year's debts, and the debts should be limited to that. Nearly all old debts have been paid, and when the present fiscal year ends, I hope that so far as the State is involved, the Guard will be free from debt. When an encampment is held, the expenses of it must be divided between the appropriation of the two years, and part of its cost must be carried over; but in all other respects a cash basis is practicable in this office, and I am working to that end.

In July last, companies "D," "F," "G," "H" and "K," of the Fourth Regiment, were permitted to go into camp at Tolchester for ten days, at their own expense. I beg to call your attention to the reports of Brig.-Genl. Stewart Brown and of Col. Howard, commanding the Fourth Regiment, setting forth the good results from that Battalion encampment.

In my last Report, I called attention to my communication to the Secretary of War, urging upon Congress the importance of making an appropriation to have a national encampment of regular and State troops at Chicago, during the World's Fair. That communication was transmitted to Congress by the Secretary of War, and a bill introduced therein to carry its suggestions into effect. But the bill failed of passage, and with the exception of a few regiments from large States, no State troops were sent to Chicago to take part in the ceremonies of the World's Exposition. For reasons given elsewhere in this Report, on another subject, it was not practicable to send any troops from this State to take part in the celebration of "Maryland Day."

The Veteran Corps of the Fifth Regiment M. N. G. of Baltimore, have been duly organized under an Act of the Legislature, (1892, chapter 315.) They have cost the State nothing, but have equipped themselves, and with an eye to useful service, have procured a Hotchkiss gun, which, in time of need, they will doubtless handle very effectively. The desire to keep up their association with the regiment whose reputation they did much to make, is certainly a natural and commendable one.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

HY. KYD DOUGLAS,

Adjutant-General.

Report of the Quartermaster General.

OFFICE QUARTERMASTER GENERAL, M. N. G.,

BALTIMORE, November 21, 1893.

The Adjutant-General of Maryland:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the Annual Report of the Quartermaster General's Department. In submitting this Report, I would respectfully invite attention to the necessity of establishing a Central Depot for storing and caring of such Quartermaster Stores not in use or unissued. The lack of proper Armories of companies located in country towns, will naturally result in carelessness. Uniforms, Woolen Blankets, Overcoats, etc., not in use require constant handling, as otherwise the moth will destroy them. The Rosters of the several companies located as above stated, will show that the majority have less men than uniforms originally issued to them, consequently there must exist a surplus of uniforms, overcoats and blankets. The question is, where are these last named articles? what condition are they in? and how and by whom cared for? It would be a saving of hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars to the State, if all such stores were turned into this General or Central Depot, where they would receive a thorough overhauling, such as scouring and repairing, at a very small expense, to be reissued on requisition to Recruits as they are enlisted. The Quartermaster stores are at present stored in the loft of the 5th Regiment Armory; with additional improvements, such as shelves, boxes, etc., which would cost very little, this loft can be turned into a good store room. The present military storekeeper is perfectly competent to care for all such stores as may be turned in. I would also respectfully recommend that sergt. Lilly, m. s. k., who has never received a fixed pay, be allowed $300 per annum for his services; these consist of receiving, handling and issuing of all State property, such as ammunition and ordnance in general, tents, clothing, blankets, camp and garrison equipage; he should be held responsible for monthly returns of all properties in his charge, and for the faithful performance of his duties.

There are a quantity of tents in store which have been in use a number of years, and from personal observation and experience at Camp Douglas, I consider these tents unfit for the sheltering of troops, they being in a leaky and unserviceable condition, the canvass being tender or rotten from age. I would respectfully recommend that all such tents be inspected, and if found unserviceable, be condemned and ordered to be sold.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

LLOYD JACKSON,

Quartermaster General.

Report of Gen. Stewart Brown, 1ST BRIGADE.

TO MAJOR GENERAL HY. KYD DOUGLAS,

ADJUTANT GENERAL, &C.

GENERAL:—In obedience to G. O. A. No. 5, G. O., I have the honor to submit the following report of the "Operations of my Command during the year ending October 1, 1893, with such suggestions to promote its efficiency," as occur to me:

1st. No Brigade Camp having been ordered, the command for the most part was occupied in the ordinary routine of drills and inspections, which were kept up regularly during the drill season, from October to May.

2d. These are all set out in detail in the reports of the commanding officers of the respective commands, and need not be repeated here. One notable exception of the ordinary routine was the participation by a large part of the Brigade (some 1,600 men) in the Inauguration of President Cleveland.

Eight Companies of the 1st Regiment, the entire 4th and 5th Regiments, and the three independent Companies, participated in this ceremony, under the command of the Brigade Commander, and all at their own expense.

Their appearance and spirit on that occasion, when they were reviewed by the Commander-in-Chief, was the subject of high commendation from him in General Orders.

Another exception was the encampment at Tolchester of five Companies of the 4th Regiment, under the immediate command of Colonel Howard. This Camp, which was held at the individual expense of the officers and men, was inspected and commended by the Commander-in-Chief, and also by the General commanding, and was productive of good results.

3d. It is not necessary here to enlarge on the importance—indeed, necessity—of a Brigade Camp, (at least one in two years,) as affecting the discipline and efficiency of the command, as the views of the Commander-in-Chief and yourself on this subject are so well known, but the Legislative Branch of the Government should be informed of its great importance, and urged to keep up the appropriation to a figure which will permit such Camp to be held; and I express a hope that a Camp may be held during 1894.

4th. It is of the first importance that the troops now in service, should be fully armed and equipped before any new companies are added to the National Guard.

The number of companies was limited by the Legislature to forty, of which one, (that at Havre de Grace,) never materialized. I would deprecate any increase in this number.

Too often companies have been formed from mere caprice, without the approval of superior officers, and in locations where they could be of no use.

I recommend that no new companies be formed, except in locations and under auspices approved of in advance by the Adjutant-General, and where they would really add to the efficiency of existing Regiments.

5th. I recommend that the Second Battalion, which has been unable to secure a Field Officer since the resignation of Colonel Pearre, and which, without such leadership, is trying to keep alive under great discouragements, should be added to the 1st Regiment. This would consolidate all the companies outside of the city of Baltimore in one Regiment, and under an able commander.

6th. When funds justify it there should be an Artillery Company, but it should be attached in sections, to existing Regiments; should not be independent, and should be directed by the commanding officer of the Regiment to which attached.

A Machine gun to each Regiment would be an important addition, when the state of the United States appropriation will permit such expenditure.

The pride I take in the Brigade as it exists, which I and my subordinates have striven to weld into a compact and homogenous body, make me zealous that, first and foremost, and before all others, each of its constituent parts should receive from the State the equipment proper to make and keep it efficient for service, and the money necessary for its maintenance.

7th. I forward herewith the report of the various subordinate commanders.

REPORT OF COL. BOYKIN, OF THE FIFTH REGIMENT.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH REGIMENT, M. N. G.,

BALTIMORE, October 20, 1893.

Col. F. W. Brune, Asst. Adjutant-General:

SIR:—In obedience to orders A. G. O., I have the honor to submit a report of the movements of my command for the year 1893:

1st. Drills were resumed immediately after the Christmas holidays, and continued until June 6th; during which time, the Regiment made rapid strides in the new drill regulations, both in the school of the company and Battalion. The officers and men are very attentive to duty, the former taking great interest in the instruction of their men.

2d. Schools for officers are held once every month in each Battalion, the Commandants of Battalions acting as instructors

3d. Schools for non-commissioned officers are also held monthly, a board of three Lieutenants from each Battalion acting as instructors.

4th. On the evening of March 3d, the Regiment assembled at its Armory in heavy marching order, mustering 590 muskets, fifty-one officers, seven non-commissioned staff officers, and seventy-three musicians, and proceeded to Washington to take part in the inaugural ceremonies of President Cleveland, arriving at 9:30 o'clock P. M., and quartered in the building known as the Old City Hall, kindly given by Marshall Ramsdell. On the morning of the 4th, in obedience to orders from Brigade headquarters, the command assembled at 10:30 o'clock, and reported to the Brigadier General thirty minutes later for parade; notwithstanding the extreme cold and heavy snow storm which prevailed, every man reported for duty, and not a man left the ranks during the very long and tedious march, the command being under arms from 10:30 o'clock A. M. to 5:45 P. M.

The Regiment paraded on this occasion the largest number of men since its organization, and never before showed to better advantage. The Army and Navy Journal, in its account of the parade, speaks of the 5th Regiment, as follows:

"The marching, manual of arms and general appearance of this Regiment, was a revelation to all who saw it; it was never in such condition as at present; it is on the upper tier of popularity, and was one of the finest Regiments in the inaugural parade, and was only excelled in point of numbers by the 7th New York Infantry." * * *

The command left Washington at midnight, on the 4th, arriving at the Armory about 4 o'clock A. M., on the 5th. The conduct of the men during the entire trip was most exemplary.

11th. To put the command in its present effective state, and to keep it so, requires a great deal of time and patience on the part of the officers, for which they get no compensation; and inasmuch as these officers give so much of their valuable time to the Guard, the State should be more appreciative, and see that their minds are not harassed as to how the money can be raised to maintain an organization which is at all times ready to serve its State in any way that may be required.

REPORT OF COL. WILMER, OF FIRST REGIMENT

HEADQUARTERS FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY,

MARYLAND NATIONAL GUARD,

LA PLATA, MD., Nov. 19, 1893.

Brig. Gen'l Stewart Brown, 1st Brigade, M. N. G.:

GENERAL:—In obedience to G. O. No. 5, A. G. O., of date January 12, 1893, I have the honor to submit the following:

The only movement of the Regiment, as a body, in the last year, was the trip to Washington in March, to participate in the ceremonies attending the inauguration of the President of the United States.

After the reorganization of the Regiment in the summer of 1892, by the assignment to this command of the companies on the Eastern Shore, the Regiment, then consisting of eleven companies, was divided into three (provisional) Battalions.

The final orders for the complete reorganization of the Regiment were issued under date of February 3, 1893, (Order No. 1,) a copy whereof is herewith enclosed, marked "Enclosure No. 2."

I have notified commanding officers of companies that I will hold no elections hereafter, unless there be a guarantee that good and capable men will be elected.

The Regiment needs equipment for the comfort and encouragement of the men, and for the life and preservation of the Regiment as a military body. On assurances heretofore received I have issued orders to company commandants to put themselves in immediate communication with the Quartermaster of the Regiment, to the end that an accurate statement may be made of the needs and requirements of the companies.

In conclusion, I beg leave to say that I have given more time to the Regiment than my business engagements would justify, and the fact that I am so far removed from the geographical centre of the territory covered by my command, makes my movements tedious and expensive. I must, in all frankness, also say, that if a commanding officer with more leisure and more accessible location could be found, it would be well for the State and for the Regiment. But until an available man can be found, I shall continue to do the best I can for a time at least.

REPORT OF COL. WILLARD HOWARD, FOURTH REGIMENT

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, M. N. G.,
BALTIMORE, MD., October 19, 1893.

*The Assistant Adjutant General,
First Brigade, M. N. G.,
Baltimore, Md.*

SIR:—In obedience to General Orders No. 5, A. G. O., through Brigade headquarters, I have the honor to make the following report of the operations of my command from the date of its organization as a Regiment, to the 1st day of October, 1893:

I. Pursuant to G. O. No. 1, June 9, 1892, the Regiment is composed of nine companies, which are designated as Companies A, B, C, D, F, G, H, I, and K.

The first four companies originally composed the Fourth Battalion Infantry, M. N. G., and were under my command as a Battalion up to the date of the formation of the Regiment.

Company F was an independent organization, known as the "Woodberry Rifles," located at Woodberry, Md., and was composed of good material, but was somewhat deficient in knowledge of military requirements owing to a lack of opportunity for proper instruction. It was neither uniformed, armed nor equipped at the time of its assignment.

Company G, was also an independent organization, known as the second company "Howard Zouaves," without uniforms, arms or equipments—while Company I, was a military organization in name only, whose roster showed a number of men as enrolled, but whose ranks were really recruited after the order was received assigning it to the Regiment.

Company H, was detached from the First Regiment, M. N. G., and assigned to the Fourth Regiment, being designated "The Company at Waverly." The ranks of this company, through circumstances no doubt unavoidable, were very much depleted, and but few men and one officer, a second lieutenant, reported for duty; therefore, it had to be recruited up to the standard number of men and entirely re-organized.

Company K, known as the "Howard Zonaves," had full ranks and was uniformed and equipped.

II. Pursuant to Special Orders, Brigade Headquarters, June 9, 1892, I assumed command of the several companies mentioned, their condition being very discouraging at the time, through lack of arms, equipments and uniforms.

Five companies had uniforms. The companies which formerly constituted the Old Fourth Battalion, viz.: Companies A, B, C and D were fairly well uniformed, as the cloth for their clothing had been received from the United States Government and had been made at the expense of the command about two years previous, the State of Maryland not having to expend any money on that account. These four companies are badly in need of new uniform trousers at the present time.

Company K was supplied with the uniforms of the First Regiment, and as the same had been in use for several years, it was necessarily somewhat worn, and now are in need of new trousers.

IV. On assuming command of the Regiment, the need of an Armory was at once made manifest. Where to house the men that they might drill in comfort, and to also have the property of the State under some suitable cover—was a question demanding immediate solution. At present the command is quartered temporarily at the following places:—

Companies A, B, C, D and I, together with the Field Music, occupy the old Armory of the Fourth Battalion on Carrollton avenue. This Armory is unfit for use; it affords no adequate protection for the State property, and by reason of its bad condition it imperils the health of the officers and men who occupy it.

Companies G, H and K are at the hall over the Broadway market; and Company F. occupies a hall at Woodberry.

VI. The Regiment made its first public appearance on the occasion of a parade of the Brigade on the 17th day of September, 1892. On the 4th day of March, 1893, it took part in the inaugural parade in the City of Washington, D. C., and received the highest praise for its admirable appearance and excellent marching. The cost of transportation and other expenses incidental to the trip was borne by the officers and the men. In July, 1893, Companies D, F, G, H and K, together with a part of the field music, received permission to go into camp for ten days at Tolchester Beach, and had a very successful encampment, the entire expenses of which were borne by the officers and men taking part. The benefit arising from this camp, in experience and discipline to the new men, cannot be over-estimated.

I have the honor to further report that in connection with the Regiment, and as a part of it, there has been organized and thoroughly drilled, a gun detachment, which demonstrated in camp the excellence of their drill in the manner in which they handled the Gatling gun and field piece used on that occasion, and I would respectfully recommend that a Gatling or a Hotchkiss rapid firing gun be purchased for the use of this Regiment.

I would respectfully submit, that the difficulty of inducing men to enlist or to re-enlist, in a Regiment where there are no attractions beyond compulsory drills, is very great. They desire to be furnished with uniforms that are not worn and shabby—as they take pride in their soldierly appearance and wish to compare favorably with other commands in dress as well as discipline. The need of lockers in which to keep the uniforms of the men, has been apparent for a long time, and on gaining possession of a suitable Armory, these necessary places for storing and preserving the uniforms will have to be made. Until that time arrives the men are obliged to take their uniforms and equipments to their homes. It will be readily seen that should the men be called to assemble at their Armories in time of a riot, the fact that they could not proceed there in citizens' dress, would be a serious matter to many of them, and I would most respectfully emphasize this urgent need.

REPORT OF CAPT. SPENCER,

"MONUMENTAL CITY GUARDS."

INDEPENDENT COLORED COMPANY.

BALTIMORE, November 4th, 1893.

Brigadier General Stewart Brown,Commanding 1st Brigade, I. M. N. G.:

GENERAL:—In obedience to General Orders No. 5, I hereby make the following report of my command for the year ending October 1st, 1893:

This year has been a very interesting one with the Monumental City Guards. The drills of the company have been good and well attended. The average has been far past last year. * * * The school of officers, held every month, is a great advantage; it not only gives the officers a thorough knowledge of the company movements, but battalion also; it stimulates them to push for promotion.

The new uniform has caused much satisfaction among the enlisted men, and to this I attribute the large attendance at drills. We have not made any parades except at night. We visited Washington on the 4th of March last, to participate in the inaugural ceremonies. We left Baltimore at 9.20 o'clock P. M. on the 3d, and arrived in Washington at 11.30 P. M. On this trip we carried 55 men and 5 musicians, all regular members of the company. * * *

On the 1st of June, drills were suspended, but company meetings were held on the first Thursday of every month. Drills were resumed on the 1st of October. * * *

The extended order drill is one of the best drills that a company can go through, in my opinion; it makes the men active, supple and muscular.

The uniforms of the company are kept in good condition, as I personally inspect every man once every two months; it is a standing order in my command.

STATE OF MARYLAND,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 12, 1893.

GENERAL ORDERS,
No. 5.

1. Hereafter the Brigade Commander of the Maryland National Guard will annually make a report of the operations of his command for the year ending the 1st of October, with such suggestions to promote its efficiency as may seem proper to him. This report will be sent to this office as soon after the 1st of October as practicable, for the information of the Adjutant General in making his annual report.

2. The Brigade Commander will require the Commanding Officer of each regiment and battalion and independent company to make a similar annual report to him, in time for his Brigade report, and under such special instructions as he may give in regard thereto. Each of these reports must be sent to Brigade headquarters in duplicate, that one of the copies may be forwarded to this office by the Brigade Commander with his report.

3. The Quarter-Master-General, the Chief of Ordnance, and any other officer of the Governor's Staff to whom special duties may be assigned or who may have charge of any special department, will also make an annual report to this office to the 1st of October, before the 1st of November of each year.

4. In order to make these reports accurate and of value, each officer mentioned should keep such data and memoranda as will aid him in the preparation of them.

By command of the Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

HY. KYD DOUGLAS,

Adjutant General.

STATE OF MARYLAND,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
ANNAPOLIS, March 6, 1893.

GENERAL ORDER,
No. 8.

The Governor and Commander-in-Chief desires to congratulate the volunteer troops of the Maryland National Guard, who turned out in such full ranks in the inaugural parade in Washington, on the the 4th inst., and to express his gratification at their soldierly appearance and bearing. The manliness with which they stood to the review, before the parade, in a driving storm of snow and rain, and the steadiness with which they carried themselves on the subsequent long march, stamped them as soldiers who, in any emergency, would prove themselves worthy successors of the ancient silk stocking brigade. Subjected to the scrutiny and criticism, which their goodly reputation naturally attracted from professional soldiers and the public, it is gratifying to know that they not only maintained the prestige which they have heretofore achieved among State troops, but on this occasion advanced their colors still further to the front of excellence and distinction. Admirably commanded, as they fortunately are, the Guard seemed to realize that the discipline and esprit which promote their efficiency reflect, at the same time, infinite credit upon the State. And there was not a Marylander along the line of march, in Washington, who did not partake of the hearty applause which continuously greeted the steady tread of the Maryland line.

HY. KYD DOUGLAS,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF MARYLAND,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

ANNAPOLIS, June 29, 1893.

SPECIAL ORDER,
No. 39.

Upon application of the Colonel of the Fourth Regiment Infantry, Maryland National Guard, companies approved by the Brigade Commander, companies "D," "F," "G," "H" and "K," of the regiment are permitted to go into camp at Tolchester, Maryland, from July 15th to July 24th, inclusive, but without authority to call upon the State for any of the expenses of the encampment.

By command of the Governor.

HY. KYD DOUGLAS,
Adjutant General.
